COPIES—TWO CENTS

DR. YAZELL SHOULD BE RETURNED TO THE STATE LEGISLATURE

Mason County's Present Representative Is In Splendid Position To Be Of Great Service To Our County—Now Boomed for Senator.

Dr. W. S. Yazell, Mason county's present representative in the lower house of the Kentucky General Assembly, should be returned to Frankfort by the vote of the people of Mason county in November in an overwhelming majority. Just at this time Dr. Yazell will of great benefit to Mason county and this section of the state of Kentucky.

During the past session the Mason county Representative was most influential among his colleagues and was a member of many of the most important committees of that body. As a legislator Dr. Yazell has proven himself most efficient. He has supported some of the most constructive legislation passed by the 1920 session and is in a fine position, if returned, to enact further legislation badly needed in the state.

Mason county has never had a more personally popular official than Dr. Yazell. He has been the warm supporter of all good roads movements and has been the father of one of the most important school bills passed in Kentucky in many years. He has always been the warm supporter of all education and the friend of the unfortunate. Through his extensive practice of medicine, Dr. Yazell has made hundreds of warm personal friends who will support him in his race. His record in office which has been endorsed by even Democrats of statewide reputation, has broadened his support. In his term Dr. Yazell has been fair, liberal, honest and conscientious and deserves at the hands of the voters of Mason county an endorsement by a large majority.

PRESBYTERY INDORSES WOMEN FOR DEACONS

Ebenezer Presbytery Offers Amendment to General Assembly Authorizing Making Women Deacons.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 12.—Women may be elected to the offices of deacons in the Presbyterian church if the consensus of the Ebenezer Presbytery is recognized in the General Assembly of the church, as result of action taken Tuesday morning at the convention of the Presbytery held in the assembly rooms of the Ben Ali theater, with Rev. Ralph Owen, of Lexington, as chairman of the meeting.

The overture of the General Assembly on an amendment to permit women to become deacons was brought before those in attendance, and after considerable discussion a vote was taken in the affirmative.

"Women are now citizens; they stand upon the same basis as men both in civic and church matters," declared W. L. Threlkeld, an elder in the Second Presbyterian church of this city. "They are frequently in better position to do the work of the deacons in the visitation of the sick and the church benevolences, and there seems to be no reason why they should not now, as in the days of the apostles, hold office in the church," he said.

GREAT FEATURE OF MOVIE STARS IS SEEN TODAY

"The Affairs of Anatol," Greatest Movie Picture in Recent Years Opens An Engagement Here.

Twelve stellar players and a supporting cast of unrivaled quality—that's the record set by Cecil B. DeMille's latest Paramount masterpiece "The Affairs of Anatol" which will be shown at the Washington theater for three days, beginning today. The roster reads like screenland's who's who. The phrase "all-star cast" is a much abused one but it adequately describes a cast that includes Wallace Reid, famous Paramount star; Gloria Swanson, Elliott Dexter, Bebe Daniels, Monte Blue, Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts, Agnes Ayres, Theodore Kosloff, Polly Moran, Raymond Hatton and Julia Faye.

Nothing like this cast in the way of aggregate talent has ever been assembled before. The drawing power of almost any of the famous names on the roll has been sufficient to awaken the interest of the discriminating public. Here, for the first time, they are appearing in a single production under the direction of a master producer—Cecil B. DeMille.

"The Affairs of Anatol" was written by Jeanie Macpherson, author of many notable Cecil B. DeMille productions. Her story was suggested by Arthur Schnitzler's scintillating comedy of the same name.

STRANGER THOUGHT TO BE MENTALLY UNBALANCED

Young Man Picked Up On the Streets Here at Late Hour in Night Says He Is Son of Ironton Attorney.

A young man giving the name of John Mahoney and claiming Ironton, Ohio, as his home, who was picked up on the streets by Officer McNamara at a late hour Tuesday night, was before Police Chief Harry A. Ort Wednesday afternoon and ordered returned to jail and given medical attention.

The young man talks as if he were suffering from mental troubles. He claims to be the son of William Mahoney, Ironton, Ohio, attorney and says he has been an electrician in the navy located in the Philippines and that he was discharged in California on August 31st. In answering the Chief's questions he was uncertain and was not certain about his father's given name giving one or two names before finally deciding that his father's name was William.

Chief Ort asked Dr. A. R. Quigley, the jail physician to examine the young man and immediately wired the Ironton, Ohio, authorities for information.

POSSESSING THE UNIVERSE.

In discussing the primary causes of the social unrest with which the modern world is being shaken, Lord Haldane made a profoundly philosophical remark when he said the other day that the true remedy is education. Education, he insists, in giving a wider mental horizon and greater spiritual freedom lifts the individual above envy and jealousy, the passion of acquisitiveness and the vice of greed.

When the mind is free, when the higher nature is dominant, a man realizes that the true values of life are quite different from material goods. He no longer counts his wages in dollars and cents. "Getting on" in the world no longer signifies the mere accumulation of substance. He ceases to covet his neighbor's property. The rich man's garden belong to him more truly than to its owner, often, because he has a finer sense of order and beauty, and a keener appreciation of nature's ways.

Lord Haldane does not mean that social and economic wrongs should not be righted, the inequalities should not be removed where it is possible, and that society should not condemn tendencies and forces which create or permit swollen fortunes on one side and dire poverty on the other.

He is dealing with that social ferment which is caused by ignorance, by want of right perspective, by false standards of measurement resulting in the misery of malcontent.

Lord Haldane says: "If a man has enough to give him a decent home and adequate leisure, he prefers the higher things of the mind to the lower delights of material prosperity."

Sidney Smith speaks of an education "which will open the kingdom of thought and all the boundless regions of conception as an asylum against the cruelty, injustice and pain of any lot."

That that is no mere fancy of the poet, pleasant to repeat but not a practical creed, has been demonstrated in the lives of thousands of men who have lived according to the rule and have enriched the world in doing it.

One of America's greatest philosophers wrote but few weeks ago: "I prize civilization, being bred in towns and liking to hear and see what new things people are up to. I like to walk about among the beautiful things that adorn the world. But private wealth I should decline, or any sort of personal possessions, because they would take away my liberty."

This is the supreme gift of education—it sets men free. The tyranny of things is destroyed. The leaden chains of low desires are broken.

Culture that deserves the name will not send a man "hot-footed along a beaten path to a prearranged and unsatisfying goal." The trouble with the world is, as Lord Haldane indicates, the acceptance of false standards due to the lack of education. Men work and earn, and become, like the proverbial farmer, links in the endless chain of more land, more corn, more hogs, more money, not knowing why they work and unable to enjoy what they acquire because they have never learned the secret of possessing the universe through the highest development of personality.

THE PESSIMIST.

Pessimist and Optimist met one day and they began to discuss the merits of their respective philosophies.

"Everything that is isn't," said Pessimist. "Nothing can be set to rights."

Optimist replied: "You are wrong, friend; everything that isn't is. From nothing everything was created. For everything wrong there is a remedy."

Then Pessimist challenged him: "Come, let us take the open road together; we will see what we shall see."

They had hardly started before they were overtaken by a stranger. His face had no trace of bitterness. Pessimist felt indifferent toward him. He was very silent; no inviting smile illumined his countenance. Optimist felt no attraction toward him. But he seemed civil enough, so they invited him to join their philosophical walk.

The three were only an hour or so on the road when they came upon a car, stalled in a ditch.

"That fellow will never get that car out of that ditch in this forsaken place," said Pessimist.

"Oh," replied Optimist. "He will get clear all right. Some farmer with a team will be along by and by."

They turned to their new companion for his opinion, but in the same moment they saw him get down under the car. They watched him for some minutes. Soon he rose, covered with the dirt of the road. He said to the owner of the car: "Friend, if you will get in and take the wheel I'll shove from behind, and I think you'll pull out all right." In a few seconds the car started off. The willing stranger began to dust off his clothes with his palms. Then it occurred to the two philosophers to ask his name, for hitherto they were unaware of his cognomen.

"Friends, my name is Pessimist. I am by occupation a doer, not a talker. What is not, I cause to be. What is wrong, I right. My tools are thought and action."—From the Wall Street Journal.

No doubt it was good business for New York to hog both baseball championships and thus cinch the world flag for her town lot, but it has created little enthusiasm among the people of the provinces, who find nothing of sportsmanlike attractiveness in ability to buy and boss ranking as determining factors in deciding plemiership.

TRUE—NEW—NO LOVE

Love and Flat Tires.

His wife, according to Frank H. Peck, manager of a New York City drug concern, took great delight in mistreating his motor car, puncturing the tires when the opportunity offered, letting it rest on flat tires and removed any part of it she was able. In addition to this she cooked only two breakfasts in five years and at the end of that time she sold Peck's auto, according to affidavits filed in the Supreme Court of New York.

Mrs. Peck has countered with the statement that she gave him the car and sold it when he would give her no money. She asked for alimony of $250 a month and counsel fees of $750, but was allowed $100 a month and $350 counsel fees.

Love, or Policy?

Observing candy clerks state that married men are better to their wives on rainy days than on clear days. On rainy days the home-going hour is the busiest of the day.

One wise clerk says: "On a clear evening the husband can take his wife to the movies but on a rainy night she probably will elect to stay home. She has a grudge on against the weather and the box of candy cheers her up, makes conversation, makes her think he still lives her and is the forerunner of a quiet evening at home. It's a good investment."

Stax, and Ancient Love

"Are you Phoebe Apollo in the body of Hercules? I don't know and I don't care, but for me you are a god. Your beauty and your strength make me forget all other men. My adorers, whom I despise, say that I am beautiful. I am young. I shall expect you, beloved, at the Temple of Isis."

This is the translation of an epistle written by his sweetheart to a successful gladiator named Stax, which has been found by excavators at Pompeii.

Stax evidently was a matinee idol of that day.

Bobbed Hair Love

A mysterious "he" figures in the separation suit brought by Mrs. Dora Novick in Brooklyn, N. Y., and the plea for reasonable alimony. Mrs. Novick had her hair bobbed and when her husband objected she told him that "he" liked it. Novick, in defending the suit, says that his wife went out afternoons and evenings, leaving their baby with the neighbors, and returned with boxes of candy and other wifely, which she refused to explain.

Love That Succeeds.

Michael H. McCormick, who was a Boston policeman until a short time ago, is about to begin his operatic studies in Italy and according to his wife, who has forced him to abandon

TAKE IT IN TIME

Just as Scores of Maysville People Have.

Waiting doesn't pay. If you neglect kidney backache, urinary troubles often follow. Doan's Kidney Pills are for kidney backache, and for other kidney ills. Ask your neighbor.

Maysville citizens endorse them. Ben P. Fleming, country constable, 228 Limestone street, Maysville, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for several years when I have needed them. I always get Doan's at Wood & Son's drug store. I have been greatly benefited by them. At times my kidneys get out of order and I suffer with a dull constant ache through the small of my back and the kidney secretions are irregular in passage. A box or so of Doan's have never failed to relieve the trouble in a short time."

The above statement was given November 14, 1916, and on November 22, 1920, Mr. Fleming added: "I am glad to renew the statement I gave for publication some years ago as the cure Doan's Kidney Pills made for me is still permanent. I confirm my former statement in every detail as it was all true."

Price 60c., at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Fleming had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

the "force" for an operatic career, he may be a possible successor to Caruso. His wife had faith in him and his voice. When competent critics told her he could have a future in opera, if he worked hard, she decided to take him to Italy on their savings and see that hard work was his lot.

Love Lost Early

"Men cannot be trusted and I am through with them," is the statement of 12-year-old Mrs. Ruby Moore, of Noblesville, Ind., who recently secured a divorce from her husband, Floyd Moore. She informed the divorce court judge that she planned to complete her education. Her married life lasted something over a month.

A musical Love

"Batting around a thousand in the League of Joy and Happiness because of your expression of love, knowing the sincerity behind it. Please don't work too hard an dtry to rest before going back to New York. Look in the mirror and find my ideal love. From your devoted Emily."

The above found in the pocket of her husband's palm beach suit was the final straw that caused Mrs. Louise Gregorio to bring suit against her husband, Daniel A. M. Gregorio, of Brooklyn. Some time ago, according to her suit, Gregorio left their apartment and went to live elsewhere. Before he did so he sent their piano to "a lady friend in Brooklyn." Now his wife wants alimony and counsel fees pending the determination of her suit.

Rough Love

"The way to handle husbands is to treat 'em rough," wrote Mrs. Gertrude Aaron to her sister and her husband is quoting this part of her letter in his defense in her separation suit brought against him in the New York City Supreme Court.

The letter continues: "I wish you could be like me. I sing all day long and feel as happy as a bird with my kiddies. But don't think I have an angel to deal with, for I haven't. We are still mad, and he gets one fit after another, for not matter what I do it's wrong, so I do as I darn please, anyhow."

On hill and plain.
Once there were smoke-wreaths
Where fields lie now,
And flames in the forests
That knew no plow.

The red men built them;
Still there spells
The autumn wreath of wood-smoke
Upon blue hills.
And white men, strong men,
Laid them to rest
By fires in the wilderness
From East to West.

Campfires, campfires,
From Maine to Oregon.
The ash of their burning
Is scattered and gone.
But where flamed a campfire
And brave men trod,
Hloom in remembrance
The goldenrod.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — The Chinese take their lightest dissipation more seriously than do we. Along with the great American institution of the soda fountain has come a vivid and lightsome assortment of names. Merry Widow, Spring Loves, Strawberry Delights, are only samples of what the counter menus offer; while at the new and only Chinese soda fountain in New York, the prize expensive item on the list of refreshments is a Sun Yat-sen Frappe, named for the great Chinese reformer and statesman.

—NY—
Next to the soda fountain, the most sensational innovation in Chinatown is the Chinese Merchants' Club, which was opened the other day with great ceremonies, at 41 Mott street. The clubhouse is a six-story building costing $150,000. Two thousand Chinese merchants from all parts of the country came for its opening and 50 Chinese musicians made music there all day and evening.

It is an unusual experience for an actress to play a role in which she longs to see some other particular actress. Mary Ryan, who after seasons of acting the harassed young heroine of many a play, is now the serene and wistful lead in "Only 38," at the Cort Theater, has one great wish — to see Maude Adams in the part. "It is ideal for her," Miss Ryan insists, "and no one else can do it as she could. But as long as she won't act any more, I am glad to try it." The audience seems perfectly satisfied with Miss Ryan herself as the mother whose children thought she must have gone beyond the last milestone of romance.

Three-fourths of a man's income belongs to his wife, according to the view of Magistrate John Kochendorfer, who considers her much more than an equal partner in the responsibilities and cares of married life. Whenever men are haled before him by wives who complain of non-support, that is the division he makes.

—NY—
The day of the campaign button has waned. "Women don't like to wear buttons," explains the women themselves, "and they have no way of wearing them on most of their clothes." So the medallion is taking the place of that time honored symbol. The women who support the Fusion ticket in New York this fall have consequently bloomed forth in metal circles as large as a silver dollar, colored in blue and gold and white, the city colors, and hung on a black silk cord around the neck. "Not only women like to wear medallions, but they are in style" is the summary of Mrs. Edward Z. Van Zile, Chairman of the Women's Committee.

Over 600 New York families, say the storage companies, moved their furniture to their new apartments this month, only to find that the old tenants were snatched there comfortably and with all appearance of permanence, and refused to give up either comfort or permanence. The apartments were leased to others when they refused to pay increased rents, but they are taking the matter to the courts and in the meantime are sitting tight.

A danger signal recently placed at a bad turn in a Long Island road is attracting the interest of motorists. The signal is a red reflector so placed that the lights of approaching automobiles are reflected in it about 100 feet before the danger point is reached. The headlights of the car keep the signal flashing in the red mirror.

Regardless of our own shortcomings, angels must not be lazy; nor must anyone depict them so. The Rev. Prof. Lorenzo Capitant, poet, artists and European authority on art criticism, has worked all summer on the decorations for the Church of Santa Clara, in Thirty-sixth street. The other day his work was finished and the doors were thrown open. Everything was all right except the angels. They slouch and look lazy, according to the edict of those in authority; so they have to be done over.

LIQUOR SELLERS LIABLE FOR TAX, RULES COURT

Judge Cochran Makes Very Important Decision In Two Liquor Taxation Cases.

An important decision was handed down Tuesday by Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran in which he held that the government has a right to collect taxes and penalties from persons violating the National Prohibition laws. The decision was sent from Maysville to the office of John W. Menzies, United States Clerk, Covington.

The decision was rendered in the case of Frank G. Brown, Covington, and W. H. Roettcher, Ludlow, against Elwood Hamilton, former Collector of Internal Revenue for the State of Kentucky, with headquarters in Louisville.

Both suits were brought to enjoin the Collector from enforcing a distress warrant issued by him to collect assessments made by him following the discovery by Revenue Agents of liquor in the business places of the plaintiffs on which the revenue tax had not been paid. In violation of Section 35 of the National Prohibition laws.

The assessments against Frank G. Brown, was $2,318.74, which includes double tax, a penalty of $500, and a smaller penalty for failing to make settlement within ten days after the assessment had been made by the Collector. In the case of W. H. Roettcher the assessment was for $2,813.40, made up of similar items as contained in the Brown case.

The first number to be given is by the Copley Quintet, which is composed of clever artists and is considered one of the finest five people companies before the public.

The program they will give will include mixed quartets, duets and solos, some of which introduce stories of the old English and Civil War period. Added to this will be a one act modern comedy with beautiful costumes. The Copley Quintet is a high class organization and is sure to be pleasing to all who attend.

THANKFUL HE WAS NOT A WOMAN

The late Lawson Tait, of England, the great woman's doctor, said he never went to bed at night without thanking heaven he was not born a woman. No doctor ever knew better than he what women have to suffer at some times of their lives. It was an American woman, long since passed to her reward, who introduced a combination of roots and herbs called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that has proved wonderfully successful in mitigating suffering and relieving diseases of women. It has brought relief to thousands of women who suffered from female ills.

Hospital reports show that 86,000 French soldiers died victims of tuberculosis during the war.

is in the eating"—
was only half through*

He started a good pudding-proof, but he didn't finish it.

There's a lot of trouble in the world from puddings that taste good but don't do good.

They "eat" well, but that ends the recommendation.

Sanitariums are full of pudding-eaters who stopped the test at taste and forgot to inquire whether their food gave the body what it needed—until the body rebelled.

Grape-Nuts is a food that tastes good and does good. The proof of Grape-Nuts begins in the eating and goes on through the splendid service which Grape-Nuts renders as a real food. Grape-Nuts is the perfected goodness of wheat and malted barley—delicious to taste, easy to digest, and exceptionally rich in nourishment for body and brain.
